

Children's Peace Home ---Parsa---

Sowing the seeds
of a brighter future

The Present

At present two buildings, one for boys and one for girls, house the 22 children currently supported by the Peace Home. The buildings, which have been constructed using local labour, traditional building methods and locally sourced materials, comprise of dormitories, downstairs classrooms and a kitchen. A well on the site provides fresh water, and there is no shortage of shady grounds around the houses for the children to play and study. Each day the children are transported by school bus to the HVP school for lessons, and they return in the evening to receive a cooked meal, study together, and meet for prayers before bed.

The Future

A larger third building is planned for the vacant plot adjacent to the residential blocks, which will become the main centre of the Peace Home's activities. This will allow the children to receive more sustained programs of vocational training, recreational activities and classes. This building will incorporate the dormitories, leaving the current smaller buildings free for Peace Home staff, visitors and for the storage and preparation of food.

A separate meeting hall for prayers, visiting speakers and programs is also planned, which will also be made available for use by the local community. Two smaller huts are to be constructed in the grounds for use by the children and visitors to the Peace Home. Other planned additions to the grounds include a playground, a kitchen garden, and a deep well for irrigation and drinking water.
